Dear Friend,

We are monitoring Hurricane Gustav as it appears to be heading towards the Gulf of Mexico and possibly coastal Louisiana. If you haven't already done so, we encourage everyone to track the storm and begin to plan accordingly should it make landfall on the Louisiana coast. Additionally, we encourage you to follow the instructions of your local emergency preparedness and law enforcement officials. Below are links to websites that will help you in your hurricane preparations:

You can also continue to check our website, which has a scroll at the top of the homepage that will provide you with the latest information from the Governor's Office of Homeland Security and Emergency Preparedness. Additionally, someone from our office will be manning our main office line over the weekend and on Monday should you have any questions concerning the hurricane.

In light of these developments, Congressman Cazayoux is returning early from his trip to Iraq and Afghanistan. He has been there for several days to visit the troops and assess the situation on the ground. In the meantime, our staff will continue to keep him updated on the preparations for the storm.

Please be safe and take all steps necessary to protect yourself and your family during a natural disaster.

Sincerely,

Kelley Gannon
District Director, Congressman Don Cazayoux
